

INT. SCHOOL GYMNASIUM - DAY.

Dawn and Coach Weathers walk excitedly into the gym.
A crowd gathers for the boys basketball game.

DAWN

I can't believe I found him.

COACH

It's wonderful, but let's take things slowly. I'm worried why your mother would lie.

PRINCIPAL WANG, 40, stylish but stern, approaches
Coach Weathers.

COACH (CONT'D)

Hi Sophie.

PRINCIPAL WANG

It's Principal Wang in front of students.

COACH

Of course.

PRINCIPAL WANG

Coach Weathers I'll need you to come with me.

DAWN

What's wrong?

PRINCIPAL WANG

It's not any of your concern.

Coach Weathers seems confused but gently touches
Dawn's arm to calm her. Principal Wang notices.

COACH

There's nothing wrong. Wait here.
I'll be right back.

INT. PRINCIPAL WANG'S OFFICE - DAY.

Principal Wang sits behind her desk. Coach Weathers sits across from her.

COACH

I didn't do this. I didn't visit those websites. What do you think I am?

PRINCIPAL WANG

I'm simply doing my job.

Her phone rings. She answers it.

PRINCIPAL WANG (CONT'D)

Principal Wang.

Her face shows concern as she listens.

PRINCIPAL WANG (CONT'D)

I'll be right there.

She hangs up the phone.

COACH

What's wrong.

PRINCIPAL WANG

Tank Malcolm just collapsed on the court. They're taking him to the hospital.

COACH

I have to get to my girls.

PRINCIPAL WANG

I'm afraid not. As of now, you are suspended without pay and are to have absolutely no contact with students until the matter is resolved.

COACH

You have to be kidding. This is me-

PRINCIPAL WANG

There's nothing more to talk about. You can get your things, but then you need to leave the grounds.